

About US

The Human Rights Research and Education Centre (HRREC) was created in 1981 and is one of the oldest in Canada and North America. It comprises researchers from the Faculties of Law, Social Sciences, the Arts, and the Telfer School of Management at the University of Ottawa.

RESEARCH & OUTREACH

The Centre supports the work of the Gordon F. Henderson Chair in Human Rights, the Neuberger-Jesin Professor in International Conflict Resolution and a Fulbright Chair in Human Rights and Social Justice as well as postdoctoral fellows and a number of visiting researchers. Our academic, graduate student and community members benefit from a dynamic bilingual and bi-juridical environment, placing a particular emphasis on public policy and social justice.

HRREC organizes numerous events and participates in various research initiatives to raise awareness of different human rights issues in Canada and internationally. The Centre represents the University of Ottawa in the Scholars at Risk Network.

For information about these initiatives and upcoming events, research activities, partnerships and publications, please visit the Centre's website.

TEACHING & TRAINING

HRREC offers a number of online courses to uOttawa students and organizes an annual summer school on International Humanitarian Law in partnership with the Canadian Red Cross. It also runs a Human Rights Clinic for graduate and undergraduate students to develop their knowledge and acquire new skills in relation to projects in Canada and abroad. The Centre also contributes to specialized training programs nationally and internationally.
